Christ's power over evil things

By William L. Trimyer
Christ's Power Over Evil and Illness
Lesson for March 7, 1982
Bible Study Passages: Mark 1:21-27, 40-45
INTRODUCTION

The early church was a healing church. It took seriously the pains and ills of the broken and diseased persons. Both the laity and religious leaders were actively involved in caring for the sick within their community.

Following the teachings and example of Christ, the early church sought to bring about healing and wholeness in those who suffered.

Ministry to the sick is still a "missionary frontier" for the church. Our ministries of prayer, touch and presence can aid in motivating persons toward spiritual, emotional and physical wholeness. To bring comfort to the sick is to both bless and be blessed.

Our lesson this week focuses upon the miraculous healing powers of Christ. Jesus was not a showman. He didn't perform miracles in order to dazzle the eyes of the people. The performance of miracles were manifestations of the kingdom of God. The miracles of Jesus went han-in-hand with his teachings. Jesus proclaimed the power of the kingdom through the miraculous healings and casting out of demons. Through such events the ultimate power of God was made known.

Power Over Evil [Mark 1:21-27]

The world in which Jesus lived was perceived as demon-filled. That demons roamed the earth and took possession of innocent people was a matter of fact in his time. Jesus sought to restore "possessed" people to their right mind.

Our day and age is no different from the day and age of Christ, that is, people today are in some sense "possessed" by the "demons" of worry, anxiety, fear, selfishness, hatred and insecurity. The cure for such ills comes from the same source Jesus called upon in his time, namely, the power of God through faith.

Faith is a positive resource for healing of all kinds. The church has been a long-time advocate of the strengths and healing affects of faith. However, faith is oftentimes treated as a peripheral resource rather than a consequential one. We sometimes treat faith the way we do the physician, that is, we make an appointment only after matters worsen.

Jesus taught and acted with amazing authority. The people stood by in sheer amazement that even the unclean spirits obeyed his command.

Power Over Sickness [Mark 1:29-34]

Here we see Jesus leaving church and going to the home of a friend. Peter's mother-in-law is sick with a fever and Jesus took her by the hand and "the fever left her." Here Jesus proclaims the power of God into a healing contact with the needs of people. In this sense, Jesus always practiced what he preached. We will do well to follow his example, namely, that when the worship is over the service begins!

Christ encountered people in the synagogue and in the marketplace. Jesus expressed his love and compassion through an act of love. As a result, Peter's mother-in-law was renewed to share with her guests.

Power To Cleanse [Mark 1:40-45]

Leprosy was a dreaded disease in the time of Christ. Lepers were colonized in order to keep them from coming into contact with the "clean" people. Lepers were, therefore, isolated and separated from their communities and family.

Jesus used his ministry of touch to bring healing to the leper. To touch someone, particularly if the person has a disease or sickness, is to affirm them as persons. We all have needs to be touched by another. We would soon die if everyone kept their distance from us because they thought we were untouchable.

Jesus told the cleansed man to refrain from telling anyone what had happened. Of course, that's like telling a child not to tell anyone what he or she saw at the circus. The cleansed man published abroad the miraculous cure of his leprosy.

The Pastor Speaks

By Rex Bennett

Do All Things Work For Good?

Scripture: Romans 8:28

It is so easy to believe Paul's words that "all things work together for good..." when circumstances are favorable, and all is going well with us. But suppose circumstances were not favorable - would we still believe it? How does that mother and father feel about these words when their 24 year old son has just died with cancer; or how does that husband feel about these words when his wife has just been killed in an automobile accident; or how does that mother feel about these words when she has just discovered that her 22 year old son is dead from an overdose of drugs?

The fact is that all things do not work together for good, not for anyone of us; and in reality, this is not what Paul would have us to believe. That actual translation of Paul's words is: "God works all things together for good to them who love Him, and who are called according to His purpose." God is the subject of the Paul's words, and if "things" is the subject, it becomes fatalism, not Christianity!

Notice that Paul has made three important applications in this verse which makes living sense about life and God's involvement in life:

1. God is at work - He is always in the process of working in your life and mine, and in the affairs of the world. God is not an absentee landlord who is oblivious to your needs and mine. He is always at work.

2. God is at work for good - Paul does not write that all things are good that happen in life; not does he write that all things produce good results. What Paul does write is that God's purpose in the world will ultimately fit together for good. From God's perspective, not from ours, He is at work for good.

Thanks expressed

I would like to take this opportunity to thank the nameless heroes of the Appomattox County Volunteer Fire Department. I wish I knew each and every name so that I could thank them personally for their prompt response to the fire at my home on Thursday morning. They were not only efficient in their task but kind, considerate and thoughtful to me and my nephew, Jason.

Even under hazardous conditions they remained professional in every way. We will forever be grateful and in their debt.
